

Lumbrukinase

Cat. No. EXTC-133

Lot. No. (See product label)

Introduction

Description Lumbrukinase extracted from earthworm alimentary canal. Lumbrukinase has the functions of hydrolyzing fibrin directly as well as indirectly by activating plasminogen into plasmin. The product has evident anti-thrombus and thrombolytic effects. Lumbrukinase in the medical profession is known as the King of thrombolytic therapy, extraction in the earthworm. Apply to affected area after the rapid infiltration of silt to dissolve the clot resistance to vascular flow, varicose veins falling gradually.

Applications Functional food, health care products and pharmaceuticals

Product Information

Source Earthworm

Appearance Light yellow or grey

Purity 5000-20000 u/mg

Function 1. Treating and preventing cerebral thrombus; 2. Treating myocardial infarction; 3. Preventing high blood viscosity; 4. Treating angina pectoris, cerebral infarction, diabetes, nephrotic syndrome, pulmonary heart disease and deep vein thrombosis.